

Justin Kinner, NCSF Certified Personal Trainer/Nutrition Specialist.

He lives and breathes the methods he uses to help people become the best version of themselves. Having competed in cross country skiing in college where he earned All-American status, he's well-aware of the hard work it takes and deploys the empathy needed to make you feel comfortable and confident in going after the new you. Justin's passion for endurance sports has guided him through several trail ultramarathon running races, including two Bighorn trail 100 finishes and a Full Ironman triathlon. He finds great satisfaction in helping people test and find new limits.
